School Standards

EDITORIAL

It's a far cry from the days when Abraham Lincoln applied himself studiously to the task of self education in a little log cabin, by candlelight, with the poorest facilities imaginable as his only encouragement, to the present up-to-date, progressive, all comprehensive school advantages offered the grade and high school students of Redwood City.

And yet, with such rapidly moving times and such pyramiding advancements, ARE WE KEEPING STEP AND GIVING OUR STUDENTS THE BEST, or do we get across some big improvements and then forget to keep abreast, and console ourselves with the conscience-slaving thought that "it's better than it used to be, and better than so and so's and so and so's," instead of basing our comparison on THE STANDARD and keeping up with the BEST.

Our school standards are the last features of our community life on which we dare compromise, or on which we would care to compromise.

We would not trade the "old fashioned" wife and mother for one moment, for a specillay trained domestic science graduate, with all the knowledge of dietetics (and yet would we turn our backs on the advantages of such training for our daughters and sweethearts, considering the large percentage of "dyspepsic-indisposition" our druggists can tell us of?

We would not compare the sturdy rough hewn pioneer type of husband and father for one moment, with the "specialist-graduate" in civil engineerin, chemistry, professional and other specialized vocations, and yet, in this age of ever increasing competition, would we refuse the advantages of the best that is offered to fit the students of Redwood City to meet this competition?

School standards, OUR school standards, standing alone, might not make US that ONE COMMUNITY IN TEN—but neglect of them might be a deciding factor.

Each generation of Redwood City must reach beyond the present generation. It is the history of progress. LET'S GIVE THEM THE BEST WE CAN COMMAND, not only for their sake, but for the sake of Redwood City.

Miss Mercedes Pierce, who is a teacher in the schools of Santa Cruz, spent the week-end at her home here.

It is reported to be the plan of the company to establish one of their major fields at San Mateo, both as a commercial post, and as a training school. It is also reported that a branch factory for the Curtis planes will be established at this point.

Sequoia To Play Jefferson Today

Local School Stands Good Chance To Win

In view of the game today at Jefferson, there is a wide opinion as to results. Peninsula coaches predict that Sequoia will beat Jefferson by at least 12 points, while Ray Dimick, Sequoia mentor, had little to say, he seemd confident that the Cherokees would come out on the long end of the score.

At the last practice game of the season before the league starts, Coach Ray Dimick took his squad to the Menlo Boys' school last Thursday. The scrimmaging which followed showed that Sequoia was far superior in every way to the Boys school's best. Menlo found that they couldn't stop the Indian's "Galloping Ghost," Ike Britschgi. The varsity, if allowed, could have gone for the first down every time.

The varsity also scrimmaged with the Junior College for about fifteen minutes, succeeding in scoring against J. C. on a forward pass.

He has been connected with the radio busines for the past 17 years, having for a number of years been chief radio man for the United States government.

County Flowers Will Be Shown At San Mateo Show

Exhibits Divided Into Three Classes For Judging

The chrysanthemum, lately proclaimed the official flower of San Mateo county, will predominate at the Fall Flower Show to be held in San Mateo today, tomorrow and Sunday. The large gymnasium of the San Mateo Junior College on Second avenue, near El Camino Real will house the exihibts. Entries have exceeded the floor space, it is stated, and it will be necessary to use the basketball court adjoining where nursery stock will be arranged in landscape effects.

A large number of cups and trophies are offered and it is expected that the competition will be keen in all three divisions, the professional, amateur and children's exhibits.

The large estates of Menlo Park, Palo Alto, Woodside, Portola and Hillsborough are represented in the professional class, as well as all the leading nurseries. Burns Nurseries of San Rafael are sending rock plants; the Frarkas Nursey of Oakland, aquatic plans; the Leonard Coates Nurseries of San Jose are entering Espalier (trellised) fruit trees bearing fruit. The 12-ft Zeppelin made of 35 varieties of straw flowers grown in the Halfmoon Bay district, that was part of San Mateo County's floral exhibit at the State Fair, will be on exhibition.

Lantern slides, moving pictures and lectures on horticultural subjects will be a feature at the evening session of the show.

Calling attenton to the fact that San Mateo county's floral output annually amounts to over seven million dollars, placing the bay region as the greatest flower producing region in the United States, the prize-winning chrysanthemums will be sent to Mrs. Theodore Hoover by air mail the opening day of the show; Mrs. Young, wife of California's governor will also be remembered with flowers from the show.

Among the decorated floats at the ceremonies opening the new Bay Shore Road will be one from the Flower Show, manned by Boy and Girl Scouts and Campfire Girls, who will distribute invitations to attend the show. Mayor Rolph of San Francisco has already accepted an invitation and after the opening of the road ceremonies, will proceed down the new road and visit the show.

The event is being sponsored by the Peninsula Gardeners Association and the Burlingame-San Mateo Flower Club.

At a meeting of a committee of representative citizens of all these districts held Tuesday plans for accomplishing the consolidation were discussed. This meeting followed a mass meeting held in South San Francisco Monday evening.

Fire In School Burns Wiring

Citizens' Night at the Sequoia Union High School, Friday evening, when the new buildings were to be inspected by the public, ended abruptly when the lights of the school were extinguished, and flames enveloped one of the switch board panels.

Due to the unusual load upon the circuit by having all the lights in the buildings turned on at once, a transformer on the main line of the electric company which serves the school, burned out and the fire in the switchboard followed. According to Electrical Inspector I. C. Drathman, who inspected the wiring after the fire had been extinguished, the damage to the wiring was very slight. It was caused he states, by the burning out of the transformer which shot 4000 volts of current into the school system which is designed to carry only 220 volts. The wires became heated with the additional load and the insulation caught on fire.

The fire in the wires was quickly extinguished by the fire department with very little damage to the school.

City Manager Wants To Make Fair License

Asks Co-operation In Setting Fair Scale

City Manager A. E. Rolison yesterday issued an invitation to all interested parties to assist in the formation of a suitable license scale for Redwood City. Until a suitable ordinance can be adopted, Rolison said, the present ordinance will be enforced.

E. B. Fox, who has for many years been in business in Redwood City, and who is thoroughly familiar with business conditions here, has been appointed by City Manager Rolison to make a canvass of the business places of the city and determine the sentiment of the business men in regard to city licenses. The full co-operation of the business people of the city is asked by the city manager.

Rolison issued the following statement in regard to the license ordinance:

In accordance with my duties as prescribed by the Charter, an effort is being made to enforce City License Ordinance No. 210 in a thorough, fair, and impartial manner. In this connection, a survey has just been undertaken to determine each person, firm, or corporation that is affected by said ordinance and also a fair and equal basis upon which the amount of each license shall be determined where a flat sum is not stipulated.

Should any inequalities arise from the enforcement of the above ordinance, the same will be referred to the City Council who have indicated a willinginess to remedy such defects as may be proven unfair or irregular. Please make sugestive changes or complaints in writing addressed to my office and the same will receive due consideration.

Your co-operation with the City's representative, Mr. E. B. Fox, who has been delegated to make the above survey and who will call on you shortly in this connection, will be greatly apreciated.

Atherton Loses Zoning Law Suit

Suit brought by the town of Atherton against Edward H. White and Joseph Shearer to enforce the Atherton zoning law ended this week in a judgment for the defendants. The case was tried in the court here, but before Judge Ernest Wyland of Colusa county. Judge Buck asked to be excused from trying the case, being himself a landowner in Atherton.

Suit was brought to force the removal of houses which the plaintiff city claimed were constructed in violation to the city zoning ordinance. The court decided that the houses in question were not built in violation of the ordinance.

Shellfish Still Found Poisonous

If you wish to live to eat again, don't eat clams or mussels—not yet!

Studies of each bed in the quarantined area, from Monterey to Del Norte, are being made, it was announced, and an order will be made public, lifting the ban, as soon as examinations show the shell-fish are free from poison.

The quarantine was placed early in August after an epidemic of poisoning, with several deaths.

"Isle of Chance" To Surpass Its First Showing

New Scenes Larger Choruses To Be Features

"The Isle of Chance" will be presented by Otis M. Carrington, head of the Sequoia music department, at the Sequoia auditorium, Saturday night. There was also a matinee Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Carrington is presenting the operetta because of the enthusiastic reception given "Windmills of Holland," when it was given for the third time this spring.

Fifteen years ago the operetta was played at the old Alhambra in Redwood City, and it has been played hundreds of times all over the United States. The lighting effects and the woodland setting will be quite different from those of the original performance. The choruses will be larger and a 14-piece orchestra will play instead of the original single piano.

Jessie Pescaro, Arline Stewart and Edna Walker take the female singing leads, while Eudele Murphy, Enid Mays and Helen Manint supply the dancing.

Tickets are now on sale in the high school and at Ryan's drug store in Redwood City.

Advertising Fruitful In California

Advertising - Minded Readers Lead In State

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 16—(UP)—California newspapers offer an advertising minded audience unequaled anywhere in the United States.

Such is the opinion of Justus Craemer of Orange, president of the California Newspaper Publishers' Association and executive committeeman of the National Editorial Association. The theme of the forthcoming state convention of the C. N. P. A. at Long Beach in January is to be: "California—Advertising Minded."

Approximately 500 editors and their wives will gather at the convention to discuss this important subject, Craemer said. Long Beach was selected for the convention in line with the association's policy of alternating annually between northern and southern California. The 1929 convention was in Sacramento. Santa Cruz is bidding for the session following the one at Long Beach.

"California stands first in many things," said Craemer. "It is away ahead in population growth, per capita income tax, production of agricultural and horticultural crops, gold, oil, etc." But many persons overlook the fact that it ranks ahead of every other state in the union in advertising.

"At the Long Beach convention the advertising problem will be attacked from every angle—state, county and community advertising; agricultural, recreational and industrial advertising. Something will be said about the great statewide exploitation agencies, Californians, Inc., and the All-Year Club of southern California. Their advertising budget annually runs into the millions.

"Orange, raisin and other growers' and packers' organizations are this year spending more than $4,000,000 in national campaigns to advertise California's fruits and vegetables. The fame of California products has been broadcast to the world through these big advertising campaigns."

California merchants believe in taking this kind of medicine for their own business, and the Long Beach meeting will re-emphasize the value of newspaper advertising, Craemer said. Purchasing value of readers of weekly and small daily newspapers needs to be more clearly defined for the information of national advertisers, he thinks.

Following the C. N. P. A. convention, publishers of the California Editorial Association, led by Friend W. Richardson, will embark on their trip to Mexico City. This trip, originally planned for last year, was postponed on account of revolutionary activities in Mexico.

A free lecture on Christian Science will be given next Tuesday, October 22nd in Burlingame High School auditorium at 8 o'clock. This lecture is given under the auspices of First Church of Christ Scientist, Burlingame. The lecturer, John C. Lathrop, C. S. B. of Brooklyn, Mass., is a member of the board of lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. The public is cordially invited to attend.

BAYSHORE HIGHWAY OPENING WILL BE MEMORABLE EVENT

San Francisco and San Mateo Counties Will Join In Huge Celebration At County Line Sunday

Thousands of persons both from this county and from San Francisco are being prepared for at the opening of the Bayshore highway on Sunday. Arrangements have been made to take care of the parking of 10,000 cars at this celebration. The opening ceremonies will take place at the county line between this county and San Francisco.

The delegation from Redwood City and Palo Alto will meet here at the chamber of commerce rooms on Sunday morning and will be joined by representatives of the other cities of the county as they travel north. They will meet the San Francisco delegation at the county line.

As part of the program a number of short talks are planned by county, city and state officials, music by a number of San Francisco bands, and the official breaking of the ribbon which will close the highway at the county line.

In the evening a street dance is planned at Thornton avenue and the Bayshore highway under the supervision of the Portola Merchants' Association. This will continue from 8 p. m. until midnight.

Dedication of San Francisco's new Bayshore highway with the formal opening of 6.6 miles of this route means more to the motoring public than the mere provision of a new highway down the peninsula. This new break in the "bottle-neck" of San Francisco' transportation facilities consists of the 3.1 miles unit built by the city from Army street and Potrero avenue to the county line and the state-built unit of 3.5 miles from the county line to the South San Francisco underpass, the two having been designed and carried forward as one unit by the two agencies.

Connecting at the underpass with the present Bayshore highway to Fifth avenue, San Mateo, the new section thus provides, from the heart of San Francisco to a strategic point on the peninsula, 18 miles of modern motor route built to the highest standards, a model transportation artery whose utility is unsurpassed.

Dedication of this new route distinctly marks a new era in street and highway construction. Whereas, only a few years ago, streets and highways were located and built along the lines of least resistance so far as the topography of the country was concerned, this new highway has been constructed with a disregard of that topography but with the idea of making it a line of least resistance to the motorist. The few intervening years have been a transition period from the old to the new order of things in road-building in this state.

Both the city and state have acquired a 125-foot right of way. This provides ample width for the present roadway and anticipates the future.

The city has built a pavement one hundred feet wide and a twelve and one-half-foot sidewalk on each side. This pavement is eleven inches thick, consisting first of an eight-inch concrete base upon which is placed three inches of asphalt. Modern requirements demand in a pavement surface, two things—that it be smooth and non-skid in character. These have been obtained by using a real coarse rock bound together by asphalt and spread smooth by the latest type of machines.

Nor is there to be any tearing up of this pavement for sewers, water-mains, conduits or whatnot. Future requirements have been anticipated and these have all been installed.

The only surface structures that will be observed will be traffic signals and lighting standards, and the wires for these are all underground. Three pedestrian underpasses have been installed at strategic points.

The 3.5 mile section south of the city limits, built by the state, represents somewhat of a different type of construction for it is a state highway in all that its name implies. The other section is a city boulevard.

The outstanding features of the state highway unit are its drastic location, deep cuts and massive fills. Combined these make as direct an alignment as may be secured. True there are one or two short sections of five percent grade, but to the motor car of today these mean absolutely nothing. Most of the road is level and hardly any grade exceeds three or three and one-half per cent.

The road has been graded to a full width of sixty feet upon which has been placed a temporary pavement, forty feet wide, of heavy crushed rock and an oiled macadam surface. The only reason for saying "temporary" is because the state intends to replace it with a heavier type as soon as the fills have received their ultimate settlement. The pavement installed is heavier than most present ones.

The forty-foot width permits of dividing this highway into four traffic lanes of ten feet each—an idea developed in California and being rapidly copied elsewhere. Slow speed traffic in the outside lanes, rapid to the middle and a decided increase in capacity of the highway itself is what makes this "lane" idea so popular.

Most of the right of way through South San Francisco has been secured to provide a sixty-foot pavement through that city. The forty-foot underpass south of that point was really built as an eighty-foot subway, and can be easily widened whenever traffic justifies.

The Bayshore highway is not a scenic boulevard, but rather it is a highway of utility. It satisfies not only the demand for an additional peninsula highway but also for a rapid transit boulevard, uninterrupted by either cross streets or railroad crossings, from the heart of the peninsula to the center of San Francisco.

The engineers who have been in direct charge of the work on the newly-completed units and who, in the face of many difficulties, carried this construction through to successful completion, are Colonel John H. Skeggs, division engineer at San Francisco for the California Highway Commission, and Clyde E. Healy, assistant city engineer of San Francisco.

A party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hilton and Mr. and Mrs. Eastland Britton returned Sunday from Los Angeles, where the two men were in attendance at the Grand Lodge of Masons of California. They are master and warden, respectively of Redwood City Lodge No. 165, F. & A. M.

A card party will be given Tuesday afternoon by Olive Branch Rebekah Lodge at 2:30. Mrs. Dan De Witt is chairman of the committee in charge of the affair.

LIONS CLUB GIVEN TALK BY DETECTIVE

The experience of an insurance man in the role of a detective was told to members of the Redwood City Lions Club Tuesday evening by Samuel T. Maccubbin. A new method of determining stresses in large masses of concrete, said by many to be one of the greatest contributions to safe dam designing in this generation, has been worked out by B. F. Jakobsen, former Fresno engineer, now in Los Angeles. The Jakobsen theory has been tested with models at the University of Colorado and the University of Norway and found correct. The method is said to prove that formulas applicable to low gravity dams do not apply to those of higher construction.

The Humboldt county crossing would be one mile north of Beatrice, and the cost would be $66,700.

Salinas motorists pay too much for gasoline. This was the statement ment made by a committee of the Salinas Chamber of Commerce, following an intensive investigation into the local retail prices of gasoline as compared with prices prevalent in adjacent districts. A lower freight rate recently has been secured, cutting the cost from 29½ cents a hundred to 22 cents a hundred, the committee shows. "The retail price in Salinas should be 21 cents per gallon," the report concludes. The current price is 22½ cents.

Six commercial fishermen from Santa Barbara, arrested off Pismo Beach near San Luis Obispo, by the state patrol boat Albicore had pleaded not guilty to charges of seining in the waters of San Luis Bay and were released on bonds of $125 cash, each, pending trial. The men also plead not guilty to charges of fishing without commercial licenses.

The first absolutely fireproof building in Santa Cruz county, the new Bank of Italy building at Santa Cruz, costing $200,000, will be occupied by officails of the bank starting October 21st.

Coach Roper Favors Fumble Rule

Coach Roper Talking Over Prospects With Captain Whyte.

(By W. W. ROPER, Princeton Football Coach, in the Chicago Daily News)

While the changes in the football rules for this year are few in number, I believe the rule making all loose balls dead at the point of recovery will have a big effect on the game.

I favor the rule, though in the past Princeton teams have been very successful in winning games by recovering loose balls. Back in 1895 Herman Suter ran 95 yards against Harvard after recovering a fumbled ball. In 1898 Arthur Poe recovered a fumble and ran for a touchdown against Yale. John DeWitt did the same thing in 1903, and Eddie Booth in 1907, while Sam White won both Harvard and Yale games in 1911 by scooping up a loose ball. In 1919 Joe Sheerer recovered a fumble for the winning score against Yale. In 1922 Howard Gray made a touchdown against Chicago in the same way.

Yet I believe the new rule is good for the game. Football is distinctly a team game, and there are plenty of thrills as it is. The recovery of a loose ball is distinctly an individual play, an on many occasions permits a weaker team to win. There has been instance after instance in the last few years where the stronger team, after rushing its opponent all over the field, has been deprived of a touchdown by a fumble inside of the ten-yard line; a fumble scooped up by some alert defensive man who ran 90 yards for a touchdown.

I believe the present rule means that the better team will win in almost every case. This was not so under the old rules.

While at first blush the public apparently may have lost a thrill, I believe in reality that new offensive tactics which I am sure will follow will more than repay them.

The try for point can now be made from the two-yard line. This rule has never quite worked out the way it was intended, in that virtually every team has used a drop or place kick and seldom tried to run or pass.

By decreasing the distance I hope it will be possible to vary the attack on this play, and if this is done a spectacular play will result.

HARRY KIPKE IS YOUNGEST COACH

Michigan Pilot Meets Bob Zuppke in One Game.

Harry Kipke, new Michigan coach, and Robert Zuppke, Illinois' mentor, will re-open the old argument of youth against age in the University of Illinois homecoming game, October 26.

Kipke, assuming the job at his alma mater just five years after his graduation, is one of the youngest coaches in the conference, while Zuppke, starting his seventeenth year at Illinois, is second in length of service only to A. A. Stagg of Chicago.

Kipke takes over the Wolverines with a head start as they are the only Big Ten team which has a margin of victories over Illinois under the Harry Kipke.

Zuppke reign. Since 1913, Illinois has won four games from them while losing five.

As an undergraduate Kipke became one of Michigan's leading athletes of all time, winning nine letters, three in basket ball, baseball and football. One of his assistant coaches, Bennie Oosterbaan, also accomplished this.

During his junior year Kipke was an all-American selection for the backfield. His chief value was in his kicking ability. According to Yost, in the game against Ohio State in 1922, he had no peer. Eleven times he punted, averaging 47 yards beyond the line of scrimmage and seven of the long spirals went out of bounds, four rolled dead, Ohio State failing to return one of them an inch.

After graduation Kipke went to Missouri as an assistant and that year the Tigers defeated Chicago 3-0, although the Maroons went on to a Big Ten championship. Returning to Michigan as an assistant he stayed until 1927 when he became head coach at Michigan State college.

University of Iowa Has Two Pair of Twin Stars

University of Iowa athletics have not one, but two pair of twins since the Seny brothers of Buffalo, Wyo., reported for the freshman cross country team. Leo and Lloyd Jensvold of Emmetsburg, the other Hawkeye mates, are rivals for the position of quarterback on the Old Gold football varsity.

Tigers Select Tampa

The Detroit American league baseball club will train at Tampa next spring, according to J. F. Zeller, representing President Navin, of the Tigers. Zeller, after inspecting sites in the South for several days, said he wired a report favorable to the Tampa grounds and received authority from Navin to close with Tampa representatives. The Washingtons have trained there for the last several seasons, but probably will move to other training quarters.

VINCENT DUNDEE BEATEN BY FIELDS

Baltimore Boy Gives Welter Champion Furious Battle.

Jackie Fields at the Coliseum in Chicago showed the Dundee family of Baltimore why he is the world's welterweight champion. In his first start as a title holder Fields whipped Vincent Dundee, brother of the man from whom he won the title, in the ten-round windup of the show that marked Jack Dempsey's debut as a promoter. The title was not at stake.

There were wide open spaces at either end of the remodeled Coliseum as the fighters entered the ring and as a financial success Dempsey's inaugural effort was hardly a knockout. The paid attendance was 7,260 and the gross receipts $31,574. This was nearly $20,000 less than had been expected.

The windup was a furiously fought battle and many at the ringside thought Dundee was entitled to a draw. Cleaner punching and a knockdown in the sixth round were the factors that counted for Fields.

One by one the old names are being removed from the English track and field records. The most recent to be supplanted is that established by L. A. He covered the distance in 2 minutes and 11 1-5 seconds. This feat classes Ellis with D. G. A. Lowe and G. M. Although the Ohio State faculty committee has sanctioned his eligibility, the Big Ten is investigating his status further to see whether his case is similar to that of Mayes McLain, Iowa's Indian fullback of 1928, who was forced out of Big Ten competition because of the conference's three-year rule. A ruling is expected shortly.

POULTRY FACTS

SOY BEANS USEFUL IN LAYING RATION

Vegetable Protein Concentrates Used in Test.

Recent experiments with the use of vegetable protein concentrates have shown that a complete or at least a partial substitution may be made. The work has been largely with cottonseed and soy bean meal with little if any work on ground soy beans. The success of these vegetable protein concentrates depends upon two factors. First a larger amount is necessary in the mash because they do not run as high in protein as do meat scrap and tankage. Second, since they are low in mineral, additional mineral must be added to make up for this deficiency. The Missouri agricultural experiment station has fed the following mash to laying hens:

Bran	22 lbs.
Shorts	22 lbs.
Corn meal	22 lbs.
Cottonseed or soy bean meal	30 lbs.
Bone meal	4 lbs.
Salt	1 lb.

The above mash constituted about one-third of the ration. It was kept before the hens all the time and in addition a moist, crumbly mash was fed once daily. No meat or milk was employed in the diet. The balance of the ration consisted of corn and oats and regular methods of feeding hens were employed. Oyster shells or limestone rock was before the hens all the time.

Such a ration produced as many eggs per hen as did similar rations in which the mash contained 20 per cent meat scrap or tankage instead of the cottonseed or soy bean meal. The results were not satisfactory unless the bone meal and salt was added. A year's test with ground soy beans failed to produce quite as many eggs as did cottonseed meal. This may be due to the fact that the ground beans were higher in fat and as a result the ration was not properly balanced. A partial substitution may be made and the following mash is recommended:

Bran	24 lbs.
Shorts	24 lbs.
Cornmeal	24 lbs.
Ground soy beans	15 lbs.
Tankage	10 lbs.
Bone meal	2 lbs.
Salt	1 lb.

This should be kept in open troughs before the hens all the time and fed the same as any regular laying mash. It may be that a larger percentage of the beans may be used but it is advisable to await further investigation before following this practice.

Direct Sunlight for Layers Is Essential

A simple, inexpensive and effective way to secure direct sunlight for the layers is to fill in about ten square feet of space at the south side of the house with an eight-inch layer of cinders. The space may well be enclosed to keep the fowls from contaminated soil. In exposed locations it may be necessary to provide a wind break of some kind. Chickens dislike wind and will stay inside to avoid it.

Cinders are especially effective. Because of their dark color they absorb heat from the sun, causing any snow or ice to melt with the first appearance of sunshine. This permits the birds to get out on the warm, dry cinders and bask in the direct sunshine even though the ground is still wet and cold.

Feeding New Corn

Where there is a shortage of corn that is dry enough to grind, a mash that will serve quite well for a short period of feeding can be made up of the following ingredients: 100 pounds of ground oats, 10 pounds of tankage or meat scraps and one pound of salt. If barley is available, 50 pounds barley and 50 pounds of oats are better than using oats alone. This mash should not be fed as a permanent laying ration, however, but just as an emergency ration.

Pullets Begin Laying

As a rule, pullets lay more eggs during their first laying season than during any subsequent season. Consequently, if hatches are correctly timed so that plenty of pullets will be brought to maturity some time during the latter part of September, a banner winter egg season is bound to follow. Pullets hatched during February or March, according to breed, should begin laying just about the right time for winter eggs when prices are highest.

Gapeworms Kill

A poultryman in Washington, D. C., lost 75 per cent of several hundred chicks from gapes. Investigation showed that this loss resulted from the use of one of the poultryman's fields, for about 24 hours, as a resting place for a flock of turkeys being driven overland. The chickens became infested by gapeworms left by the turkey flock. In addition to producing the noticeable symptoms of gaping, by obstructing the windpipe the chicks did not thrive.

Useful Self-Feeder

The self-feeder is another indispensable article in up-to-date poultry keeping. Laying hens must have mash containing high protein feeds and self-feeders furnish the only satisfactory way of giving this mash to the flock. Some poultrymen feed no whole grain whatever, only mash, and under this system the birds get their entire ration from self-feeders. Open troughs are wasteful for mash feeding and do not permit the small birds to get their share.

We Make Good

Which Comes First . . . The Hen or the Egg?

What is the answer?

Does the hen get the credit for producing the egg—or the egg for producing the hen?

The question has troubled a lot of people for the last several hundred years.

While all this argument has been going on, however, the hens have continued to lay eggs and the eggs to hatch hens.

THEY HAVE ACCOMPLISHED SOMETHING.

And each is necessary to the other.

. . . Which brings us to the subject of community teamwork . . .

ARE THE HEN-LAYING, EGG-HATCHING COMBINATIONS IN OUR COMMUNITY PRODUCING FOR OUR ADVANCEMENT?

A lack of teamwork has kept more communities from the progress they should make than any other single factor. Few towns rate more than half as well as they should because of lack of concerted community effort.

When the various business, social, educational and religious organizations function as separate, independent units, regardless of the splendid work of each, if they are not coördinated—"keyed in" with each other, they lose most of their effectiveness.

No one community ever may attain perfection. Schools can always be improved—Business can always be better; standards of living higher. Every factor in every community can always stand improvement.

It must be remembered that everything in our town depends on everything else. We are made up of many parts—each serving an individual purpose, but all closely related and inter-dependent. Strength of one is strength of all; weakness of one, weakness of all. Therefore every factor must be strong!

Where to begin to make stronger?

By discovering the spots most in need of reënforcement. Some factors are more vital to our community than others and require first attention. FIRST THINGS FIRST!

Futile argument as to which factor comes first dissipates the energy that should go into the teamwork.

Remember, it will never be decided which comes first—the hen or the egg—we only know that THE TEAMWORK OPERATION PRODUCES PROGRESS AND RESULTS!!

More teamwork and unification of effort will help each of us and strengthen

Coastside Transportation

MANY of us living on this side of the county with its network of paved roads giving access to San Francisco, its railroad and electric line communication, fail to fully appreciate the value of this transportation. The people on the coastside, however, appreciate its value, and want to see some suitable means of transportation furnished for their section of the county.

Here we have four main arteries leading to San Francisco. The coastside has only two—the Pedro Mountain grade, and the Halfmoon Bay grade, both steep, crooked roads and neither of them sufficiently wide for the amount of travel which goes over them. These two mountain roads and the trucks and cars which go over them, furnish the only transportation for this important section of the county. Such a condition is a tremendous obstacle to the development of the coastside of the county.

For many years, in fact ever since the abandonment of the Ocean Shore Railroad, the people of the coastside have urged the use of the railroad right of way for a highway into San Francisco. This would do away with the dangerous mountain road and also shorten the distance and the time required to go from coastside points in to San Francisco.

Many things have happened to delay the construction of such a highway. It is proposed to construct it through a joint highway district of three counties. But the preliminary proceedings in order to get the three counties all to be ready to start at once seem almost endless. In the meantime the winter rains are cutting the old roadbed away and bit by bit it is being washed into the ocean. A few more years and the old graded right of way will be gone.

And while the proceedings are in progress the people of the coast are without adequate facilities of transportation. Many business places on the coast are operating at a loss, but holding on grimly for the day when the new road will change conditions and bring a flood of people along San Mateo county's picturesque beaches every week-end to spend their money and enjoy the fresh air and warm sunshine of this county.

A Good Idea

THE state traffic patrol is to be commended for its action in abolishing a system at once undemocratic and unfair. Eugene Biscailuz has announced this week that courtesy cards and special badges issued to motorists to exempt them from arrest would no longer be issued. In this he is following a policy inaugurated some two years ago by Frank G. Snook, chief of the state motor vehicle department, who called in many of the badges issued in former years.

The granting of special privileges to some and denying the same to the many is opposed to American ideals. Such a system makes it embarrassing also, for the traffic officer who overhauls a speeder only to find that he is exempt through the possession of a courtesy card from the department. With this system in the discard the traffic patrol will function better and all motorists will be equal in the sight of the law.

RECENTLY a large American city was without electric current for a short time. The chaos resulting was graphically described by the Boston Herald, which said: "Street lights failed to work, with consequent traffic snarls; radios were struck dumb; electrical machinery in dozens of factories stopped; * * elevators stuck between floors * * ; pipe organs in movie theatres died with dismal groans and the pictures 'froze' on the screen; soda fountain milk shakers refused to shake, and the supply of carbonated water soon gave out; afternoon newspapers were delayed by idle presses * * *."

Such a list could be continued for many pages. Electricity has become so integral a part of our lives and so necessary to all the machinery of our civilization that when service is interrupted for the briefest period of time, business actually comes to a stand-still. Behind almost every luxury and necessity we ues and almost every task and occupation, is electrical power. It is no wonder that electricity has often been considered the greatest agency of progress we have.

Does Advertising Pay?

ONE brilliant afternoon in Pompeii while gladiators were engaged in a finish bout in the stadium, old Vesuvius gave vent to her pent up feelings and blew ashes all over the surrounding places to a great depth.

That was in the year 79 A. D. More than 1,500 years passed and even the very memory of Pompeii was lost. Then one day in the year 1594 a workman in the orchards that flourished over the site of Pompeii felt the earth give way beneath him and he fell in upon the long forgotten city of the dead.

Excavations were made and the ash-preserved city revealed its story to the world. The walls bore a large number of advertisements, some announcing the combats so suddenly halted that fateful afternoon, others extolling the virtues of wines and still others promising some needed blood for the arena.

Those were not the first advertisements, but they are perhaps the most interesting. Advertising has made more progress in the past twenty-five years than in the nineteen hundred years since the destruction of Pompeii.

Despite the fact that advertising is a powerful force in modern-day life there are still many merchants, and salesmen, too, who believe that advertising is not essential to the economic conduct of business. There are still those who feel that advertising is a burden on business which must be supported at the expense of both merchants and salesmen.

It is essential to the success of salesmen that they understand how advertising not only saves their time and increases their sales volume, but how it speeds up the merchant's turnover and increases the number of his profits during the year.

Speeding the movement of goods creates more sales and profits for both salesmen and merchants. The salesman cannot sell the merchant any faster than the merchant can sell his customers, and it is to the advantage of the salesman to keep ever fresh in the minds of his customers the truth that the merchant's profit cannot be realized until the last few items of his purchases are sold. The sooner he reaches these items the quicker he arrives at his profits. Advertised goods—and only advertised goods—sell rapidly.—Meredith's Merchandising Advertising.

The Fire Department

WE wonder how many jokes have been made at the expense of the fire departments of this country. There have been so many that we know it would take several very large volumes to contain them. Yet there appears to be a certain sameness in fire department jokes. We recall one about a man who was telling a friend about a fire and stated that a woman was in the burning building. "Was she burned to death?" asked the friend. "No," he replied, "the firemen found her, and she was drowned."

The firemen's propensity for flooding the building and doing more damage than the fire forms the basis of all the jokes. Perhaps this is true in some fire departments. If so, Redwood City is blessed far beyond the average. For the local firemen have in every instance which we have observed, and we have kept a close watch on fires for a number of years taken every precaution to prevent unnecessary damage.

A good instance of the work of the firemen was that at the highschool Friday night. The switchboard was blazing, the lights were out all over the building, smoke was belching from every ventilator. A department might have been excused for chopping holes, helterskelter in every wall and floor. Not the Redwood City department, however. Under the expert leadership of its chiefs, this department made one small hole in one wall, found the source of the trouble and put out the flames. The damage done in cutting the wall can probably be replaced for less than ten dollars.

The local department has always been noted for its efficiency in putting out a fire quickly. Too much cannot be said, however, for the care and thoughtfulness shown in every case in keeping the damage by water at a minimum, and in the avoidance of all unnecessary cuting of floors, walls and roofs.

Cost of Education

THE sum spent on education sounds "enormous." But when reduced to its lowest terms—the cost to each individual—it seems very small. Taking the country over it is about three cents per person per day. It seems hardly fair to charge education with the excessive burden of which it is such a small part. We are able to give, without sorely taxing our ability what is needed to provide adequate school advantages for all, if only we regard the education of our children as a primary duty of the state. It is a matter of priority of interest and not a question of ability.—N. Y. Times.

Ducks Reported Plentiful

Duck hunters report the birds plentiful in the local marshes but fly so high that it is impossible to shoot them. Very few bags have been taken this season. At the preserves, where the ducks are fed, shooting has been good. Only the rich own preserves and as a consequence the poor must forego the sport and the birds, but the poor we always have with us, so what are you going to do about it?

Seeking Right of Way

Right-of-way men were here during the wek seeking rights of way for widening the highway. When these concessions are obtained work on the road will begin at once. Property owners are to be paid by the state for their property and for the work of setting back the buildings in town. The work of widening the highway in Santa Clara county has been completed from the San Francisquito bridge to Sunnyvale. The enterprise is a commendable one and should receive the hearty co-operation of all taxpayers.

Golf Links On Stanford Farm

The large golf links on the Stanford Stock Farm to the south of Santa Cruz avenue is being completed. The green links add to the beauty of that section. The old John Monohan home is a part of the new golf grounds. Around this spot lingers memories of other days, days when the old pioners from Searsville, then a thriving and progressive town, met at the fireside of the popular early settler and discussed the thrilling issues of the civil war. This was before Stanford came and when the dying echoes of the Santa Clara Mission were still heard, when cattle roamed over the vast open spaces, where now towns and villages spread out in all directions. Golf bugs will now drive the snowy white balls over the grassy slopes where once the rugged pioneer enjoyed a cold bottle and laughed at the latest jokes told with gusto by the boys from Mayfield and Searsville. Those lotus days of the dim long ago will gently slumber in memory until time shall be no more.

California, I'll Be Coming Back to You

The following poem appeared in "The Watchman," and is from the pen of Rev. W. L. Bone of the Menlo Park Presbyterian church. The poem was written on the train as the author pulled out for the East to visit his old home town.

I'm revolting, Old Man Duty,
You just crawl from off my back,
Get your skinny carcass moving
Or I'll wallop you a whack!
For I'm off to ride the choo choo
For a little spell of gad,
And I will not have you tagging
For your visage makes me sad;
And I've bought a pullman ticket,
And I'm speeding far away,
But I'm telling everybody
That I'm not a-going to stay;
For I'm leaving California
Where the skies are bluest blue.
You just wait, my California,
I'll be coming back to you.

Yes, it's goodbye, San Francisco
And your stimulating air;
And it's farewell fairest mountains
And to blossoms everywhere,
And it's leaving sunny faces
And the land of easy smiles,
But I'm killing Old Man Duty
In an avalanche of miles—
Back to scenes of happy boyhood
And the days of long ago—
Just a glimpse of things forgotten
And the folks I used to know;
But for love and home and beauty,
And for friends whose hearts are true,
I'll be coming, California,
I'll be coming back to you.

Like a little while to wander,
Like to see the distant sights,
Like to know how other people
While away their days and nights.
Like to stand on distant mountains,
Or to cross the distant plains,
Sorto' brushes out the cobwebs
From your lagging sluggish brains;
But when all is seen and pondered,
When you've tasted every thrill,
You have yet a hungry feeling
That there's something wanting still.
And I know what cures that hunger
And I know just what I'll do,
I'll come back, my California,
Yes, I'll hustle back to you.

WOODSIDE

The road crew of this district has just completed extensive repairs on the Canyada road. This road has been in bad shape for some time and has caused much discomfort to the many visitors to this region who come from San Francisco by way of the Skyline boulevard. The improvement will be appreciated by the local inhabitants as well as by our visitors.

The community party on Monday night brought out a capacity house. Motion pictures were shown by Miss Marjorie Josselyn and by John D. Short some of the films having been made of local happenings. In addition to these there were two professional films one featuring Charles Lindberg and the other being a Charlie Chaplin comedy. At this party was held the drawing for the handsome bed-spread for which tickets had ben sold throughout Woodside. The lucky number was 177, the ticket for which was held by Mrs. Paul Fay.

The Parent-Teacher Association will give its second card party of the season at the association headquarters on Friday night at 8:30. There will be refreshments for all and prizes for the winners. The affair will be in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Leland John.

The Woodside Girl Scouts were reorganized on Wednesday afternoon at a meeting held at the P.-T. A. hall. The activities of the organization have been suspended owing to the removal from Woodside of Mrs. George Givens who has been in charge of the girls since the beginning of the organization. The meeting was addressed by Miss Phillipson and other workers drafted. The activities of the Scouts will hereafter be under the direction of Mrs. James V. Neuman and Mrs. Ots Dudley.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hathaway left on Thursday for a trip to New York.

Henry Holmes and family spent the week-end at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry MacArthur returned last week from their summer home here to their home in Palo Alto.

J. Harra, formerly an employee at Newman Bros. garage, has opened a garage and repair shop of his own. He has taken the building heretofore occupied by Bocci Arata for a feed and fuel warehouse and equipped it with tools and machinery for automobile repair work.

Mrs. James Eva of San Francisco, formerly of Redwood City, has been visiting for some days with Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Mighall.

REAL ESTATE FACTS

This is one of a series of articles prepared by the National Association of Real Estate Boards and published weekly in this newspaper for the information of its readers on real estate matters.

"Don't be rushed into a real estate deal until your judgment dictates it is the deal for you to make," is unexpected advice from a group of real estate men, but this statement is found in a series of lessons for the public recently issued by the Cleveland Real Estate Board.

Valuable hints on buying pointers for the private seller of property, and some important "don'ts," are included in the series, prepared by a committee of which Randolph F. Sellers was chairman and which the National Association of Real Estate Boards is presenting today as of interest to the public throughout the country.

The 'course" is divided into four lessons: "Points to Consider In Buying Property," "Points to Consider In Selling Realty," "Closing A Real Estate Deal," and "Fundamental Facts About Real Estate Terms."

"Don't argue with a buyer," "Don't expect a quick turn-over in an ordinary real estate market," "Be sure than you understand whether the mortgage you give or take is a first, second, or third mortgage," are some of the most striking examples in the directory for the "other side" of a real estate deal.

Points to Consider in Buying Property

PRICE—You should choose the broker who is an authority in the kind of property you wish and then depend upon his best judgment as to values. Know your broker. A realtor wishes to maintain his reputation for integrity. Do not buy for cheap price alone, but insist on the following conditions:

LOCATION—Do not buy too far from rail or motor bus transportation. Buy within reasonable distance of schools. Do not buy near locations affected by ordors, excessive smoke or noise. Do not buy a new building on recently filled-in land—it may settle. Be sure city water, gas and sanitary sewer are connected and properly installed.

FINANCES—Know the amounts of the mortgages and when they are due; also when payments are due and the amounts. Be sure if such payments include interest or not. Do not buy unless you are sure you can meet these payments.

SIZE OF LOT—Be sure the property you buy is one you have inspected. If in doubt, have a survey or location service by a title company. Read the abstract for legal description.

FIVE DON'TS—Don't be rushed into a deal until your judgment dictates it is the deal for you to make.

Don't tell other people the terms and properties which have been offered to you in confidence.

Don't permit a second broker to try and sell you the same property previously shown or quoted to you by another broker.

Don't go around your broker and try to deal directly with the owner.

Don't have a second broker submit property to you until your first broker has shown you the property he has, and you are sure he is unable to serve you.

Points To Consider In Selling Realty

Be familiar with property in the neighborhood. Be ready to answer a variety of questions concerning general facts about the vicinity.

Know all the advantages of the property. The property should be in a neat and attractive condition.

One for sale sign is better than several signs.

Install conveniences to aid the housewife. These help make residential sales.

Don't mis-state or overstate the facts.

Don't argue with a buyer.

Be frank with your broker.

List property with the broker in writing. It is a protection to owner and agent

Quote the same price to both a prospective purchaser and to the broker.

Do not list your property for sale unless you are willing and ready to sell it.

Expect the broker to render his opinions concerning your property in accordance with his best judgment, unbiased by your personal preferences.

Do not tell other owners or brokers the names of prospective purchasers submitted to you by your own broker.

Do not negotiate directly with a buyer submitted by your broker without informing your broker of such action.

Do not expect a quick turnover in an ordinary real estate market. Real estate is our most stable and least mobile commodity.

Closing A Real Estate Deal

Having selected your broker with care, you have a right to expect a careful preparation of the sales contract. The contract should contain:

1.—A legal description with lot number or other detailed designation.

2.—Purchase price and how it is to be paid

3.—Mortgages and encumbrances.

4.—Kind of conveyance and evidence of title.

5.—Full notation as to common driveways or easements.

6.—A definite date for the proration of taxes, interests, rentals, etc.

7.—Date of possession.

8.—The examination of title and brokers commission should be provided for.

Records must be searched in the examination of a title. Court cases and papers in the recorder's office affect real estate titles. It may therefore be advisable to have a title company serve you in closing a deal.

Fundamental Facts About Real Estate Terms

Fundamental facts to know before signing any papers pertaining to real estate deal, read them and be certain you understand them. Some of the papers are:

DEED—The legal paper which transfers ownership of property. The seller should not sign or give a deed until he receives the purchase money.

The buyer, on getting his deed, should have it recorded at the court house.

MORTGAGE—The legal instrument given to guarantee the payment of a loan on property. Be certain you understand whether the mortgage you give or take is a first, second or third. Its rank is determined by the order in which it is recorded.

LAND CONTRACT—An agreement between seller and buyer, which may or may not be recorded. Such an agreemnt is only as good as the character of the persons making it. Be certain you know the facts.

LEASE—An agreement between landlord and tenant as to a limited term of possession. Know definitely whether your lease is by the year or from month to month. If by the year, you automatically renew the lease for an additional year when you retain possession the thirteenth month, unless the lease specifically provides to the contrary.

MECHANIC'S LIEN — The right of a workman to attach a property for labor he has performed in construction. When buying a new property have the seller guarantee against liens.

OPTION—The right given by an owner to a prospective buyer to purchase a property within a limited time. An option virtually is a sale contract. Be certain of its terms and do not give an option unless ready to sell.

LISTING WITH THE AGENT—This should be in writing and does not prevent the owner selling direct, unless the listing be exclusive to one agent.

There will be a housewarming in the new building which Winter & Allen have built for their planing mill tonight. Dancing and music will be furnished for those who are so fortunate as to have been invited.

The grounds in front of the courthouse presented a beautiful appearance with blooming morning glories and cosmos of every hue and color. The flowers show the care and attention given them by Mr. Hedge.

Mrs. S. T. Fox and her daughter, Miss Bee Fox, will leave the first of November for San Francisco, where they will make their home for the next five months. During their absence Mrs. Fox will rent her home here to Mr. Peabody, who has charge of dredger, which is doing the reclamation work at the mouth of Redwood creek

The cottage which A. J. Beer lately constructed for J. F. Johnston, has been completed and is one of the neatest houses in town. It is a one-story structure, with a large porch and burned brick chimney on on the outside. There are seven rooms and a large basement. Mr. Johnston will move into his new home about the first of the month.

As the result of the week's services that Captain Dutton, national organizer of the Independent Order of Good Templars, has been conducting in the local churches, a lodge was formed here last Monday night. Twent-five persons have taken the pledge and have been admitted to membership in the order.

Change in State's Congressional Map Proposed in South

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 16—(UP)—San Mateo county, with an estimated population in 1932 of 86,000, has been tentatively placed in the sixth congressional district of California in the first suggested re-apportionment of the state now being studied by 10 southern California counties.

The 1931 session of the State Legislature will be called upon to redistrict the state into congressional divisions. The tentative apportionment was made at a recent meeting in San Diego of representatives of each of the southern counties, headed by Colonel Eric Fowlef of Los Angeles.

California's population in 1932, it was estimated, will be 6,143,000. If this prediction is correct, the state will then be entitled to 22 congressmen, as it is estimated that each congressional district will contain a population of about 275,000 average for the entire United States.

Accordingly, under the proposed plan, southern California was given 12 congressional districts and northern California, 10.

The proposed districts are:

District No. 1—Sonoma, Napa, Yolo, Colusa, Lake, Mendocino, Glenn, Tehama, Trinity, Humboldt, Siskiyou, Del Norte, Shasta.

District No. 2.—Madera, Merced, Stanislaus, Mariposa, Tuolumne, Calaveras, Alpine, Amador, El Dorado, Placer, Sutter, Yuba, Nevada, Sierra, Butte, Plumas, Lassen, Modoc.

District No. 3 and 4—San Francisco.

District No. 5—San Joaquin, Sacramento, Solano.

District No. 6—San Mateo, Contra Costa, Marin, City San Francisco.

Distrct No. 7—Alameda.

District No.8—Alameda.

District No.9—Monterey, San Benito, Santa Cruz, Santa Clara.

District No. 10—Tulare, Kings, Fresno.

District No. 11—Kern, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, Ventura.

District No. 12 to 19, inc.—Los Angeles.

District No. 20—San Bernardino, Inyo, Mono, City of Los Angeles.

District No. 21—Imperial, Riverside, Orange.

District No. 22—San Diego.

"These districts are not arranged with any consideration for the present incumbents in congress," the various southern county representatives were told when the plan was presented to them.

At present the entire proposal is in southern California. If it gains the support of the 10 counties there, it will be offered to the central and northern California counties.

Songs of Plain Folks

By James Lewis Hays

The Baby

It may be the corn grew thicker
Since our baby came along,
But I think my step is quicker
And my hands are twice as strong,
For the morning's not half over
When I've husked a heaping load,
And I see you at the window
As I'm driving up the road.

Let me tell you, little Mother,
Dear young Mother of the Boy,
There's a strange something-or-other
In his smile that gives me joy!
There's a new and lovely something
Shining in his mother's eyes
Ever since that youngster's coming,
Like a gleam from Paradise.

Oh, it gives me heart and vigor
To attack the meanest task!
Days are brighter, life is bigger;
Just a hasty kiss I'll ask,
Just the grip of Baby's fingers,
And I'm off to work again,
For the while the pressure lingers
I'm the happiest of men!

BIG GROWTH SEEN IN JUNIOR COLLEGE

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 16—(UP)—California now has 11,716 students enrolled in the 16 junior colleges throughout the state, according to an announcement of the state department of education.

The hair has a surprisingly strong influence over the general aspect of charm. Our special sets in hair dressing and designing tell us that there are seldom two heads alike, but that women too often fail to realize that copying another women's coifure makes her too commonplace.

Land Shark Is Prey of State Commissioners

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 17—(UP)—Legitimate real estate dealers of Redwood City need have no fear of the state real estate division as long as they stay away from "wild cat" propositions.

But the division will spare no one whom they find mulcting the public of money or fraudalent sales. This is the statement of Deputy Real Estate Commissioner T. A. Kelly, folfowing complaints that the division has been issuing unfavorable publicity on worthy projects.

"Honest realtors have nothing to fear from us," he said, "but we are relentlessly pursuing the high pressure firms that broadcast glittering promises of wealth that cannot be backed with facts.

"We always advise prospective purchasers to carefully examine what they are about to buy. The division protects the public as much as possible, but the public must safeguard themselves, too.

"The complaint has been made that in some cases, through certain unfavorable publicity, we have injured whole sections through the persecution of a firm selling in only a portion of that section. Whenever possible, we are specific in our publicity and attempt to indicate just where the fraud is being perpetrated. Should anyone be in doubt at any time, a letter to this division will always receive a response, outlinging result of investigation made by us."

Funeral Held For Pioneer Resident

Funeral services were held yesterday for Thomas Kearse, who passed away Tuesday at his home at 505 Pine street. Kearse was 86 years of age and had been a resident of this city for the past 56 years. He was a native of Ireland.

Services were held at the parlors of Layng & Tinney, followed by a mass at Mt. Carmel Catholic church. Interment was in Holy Cross cemetery, Menlo Park.

The deceased was the husband of the late Mary Kearse, and is survived by one son, Frank P. Kearse, and two daughters, Mary and Ella Kearse, all of this city.

State health officials today sounded that warning following reports that there was a general impression the ban on shell-fish had been lifted.

Chrysanthemum Named Official County Flower

The chrysanthemum has been officially adopted as the floral emblem of this county. This action was taken at the meeting of the San Mateo county board of supervisors Monday, following the receipt of numerous recommendations from service clubs and civic organizations that this flower be made the official flower of the county.

The finest chrysanthemums in the world are grown in San Mateo county; and an annual crop of $7,000,000 of these flowers is shipped from here to points in all sections of the country. This, and the excellent showing which the chysanthemums from here have made at the state fairs, determined the choice of this showy flower as the emblem for the county.

The board voted $25 for cards to advertise the county flower show which is to be held at San Mateo today, tomorrow and Sunday. In recognition of the selection of the county's official flower, a large bouquet of chrysanthemums will be presented to Mayor Rolph of San Francisco at the celebration of the opening of the Bayshore highway on Sunday.

County Sportsmen Planning Banquet

A convention of considerable importance to conservationists and wild life lovers wil be held at the Whitcomb Hotel, San Francisco on Friday and Saturday, October 25 and 26.

At the conclusion of the convention a banquet wil be held at 6:30 p. m., on Saturday October 26th.

Ladies are invited and it is hoped that members of the San Mateo County Fish and Game Protective Association, with their ladies, will be represented in numbers.

Albert Lindley, the well-known toastmaster, will preside and this assures the success of arc al sportsmans banquet. It is expected that delegates from all over the state will attend, and addresses will be made by Stewart Edward White, I. Zellerbach, Senator Sanborn Young and Fred G. Stevenot of the Fish and Game Commission, and other well known advocates of forestry and wild life.

In addition to the members of the San Mateo County Association, the public is cordially invited to attend.

Allan C. Harding, 217 Baldwin avenue, San Mateo, the secretary of the San Mateo County Club, is receiving all applications for the banquet.

Burlingame Opens Re-district Fight

The Burlingame Chamber of Commerce this week resumed its fight to have the supervisorial districts of the county relocated so as to provide a more equal division of representation on the board of supervisors. Officers of the Burlingame organization have set as their goal the securing of 3200 names on the petition.

The fight for a re-districting of the supervisorial districts of the county has been maintained for a number of years by the Burlingame residents. The case has been tried in court and petitions have been presented to the county board. Both methods have so far ended in failure. It is planned by Burlingame to make the re-districting a referendum issue.

KIWANIANS TOLD LIFE STORY OF THOS. A. EDISON

The life and inventions of Thomas A. Edison, formed the subject for an interesting address given Wednesday before members of the Redwood City Kiwanis Club by Charles Huyck of 613 Brewster avenue, manager of the San Francisco branch of the Graybar Electric Company. In his address Huyck related many interesting and little-known sidelights of the life of the great electrical worker.

This month marks the 50th anniversary of the invention by Edison of the incandescent lamp, and is being celebrated throughout the nation on that account. The meeting of the club was held in commemoration of that occasion and official recognition of the anniversary will be taken at the meeting of the board of directors which will be held today.

The chairman of Wednesday's meeting was Duncan Reynard, office manager of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company here. Elmore B. Hinman, secretary of the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce, called to the attention of the members of the club the plans made for celebrating the opening of the Bayshore road Sunday. Plans were also made for the district meeting to be held in San Mateo Tuesday.

Over 60,000 Telephone Plant Men, Trained in First Aid Treatment

Practical First Aid—Two Man Event

Accident Victims Given Timely Aid, Relieving Pain and Saving Life

A SCREECH of brakes, a scream of fright, a crash and two more automobiles have collided on a lonely country road far from the nearest doctor and farther still from the nearest hospital.

Sitting astride a crossarm on a pole near the scene of the accident is a telephone lineman diligently at work on a new speech highway for the public. He quickly unsnaps his safety strap which holds him securely on his lofty perch, swings into position on the pole and with the skill acquired by long practice rapidly descends. A call to his fellow workers up the road brings skilled, efficient help and the standard first aid supplies of the Bell System always available on the job.

In the crash a young boy has been thrown against a shattered windshield and blood is spurting from a bad gash in his wrist. The lineman grasps the youngster's arm at the elbow and by pressure of the fingers at just the right point the bleeding suddenly stops and a young life with all of its possibilities of accomplishments has been saved, for the loss of too much blood makes the task of the doctor hopeless when he arrives. The necessary further first aid treatment is given to the boy's wound and the less critical injuries of the other motorists are cared for by the telephone crew from the supplies of the Bell System's first aid kit. A passing motorist in a large comfortable car takes the injured group to the nearest doctor where his services because of the excellent first aid treatment rendered by the telephone men, are most effective.

Back of this typical example of the splendid humanitarian service of this isolated telephone crew is a story of the spirit of service of the individual members of a huge national public utility. Over 60,000 plant men of the Bell System scattered all over the country in the performance of their daily tasks, on the city streets and country roads, in the homes and offices of the telephone subscribers, are trained and equipped, ready and willing to serve the American public in saving life and relieving pain in an emergency.

In collaboration with the American National Red Cross some seven years ago the Bell Telephone System undertook the gigantic task of training plant employees in first aid. The plant employees are those who construct and maintain the telephone poles, wires and cables of the System, maintain the central offices and equipment and install and maintain the telephone instruments in the subscribers' homes and offices. This training includes such features as the proper methods to follow in connection with resuscitation from drowning, electric shock, gas asphyxiation and other forms of suffocation, the first aid treatment for controlling severe bleeding, caring for cuts and burns, splinting broken bones, etc. In short, the training covers all of those features which relieve the patient's pain and suffering and keep him in the best possible condition so that the services of a doctor can be most effective when he takes charge of the case.

Bayshore Road Meeting Today

(Capitol News Bureau Service)

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 17—Decision by the state railroad commission as to whether the Southern Pacific must construct an overhead crossing or pay any share of its cost, is expected to end the long-standing controversy between that company and the state highway commission regarding grade crossings on the crack new Bayshore Highway within a short time.

Formal hearing before the commission will be held in San Francisco today, and a ruling probably will be issued a few days later.

EXCHANGE CLUB GIVEN TALK ON CHECK RAISING

An interesting talk on methods used in raising checks was given before members of the Redwood City Exchange Club Tuesday evening. The speaker was W. H. Bromlee, who is connected with a San Francisco check protector firm. The speaker showed by demonstration the methods used by crooks in forging checks and in raising the denomination of checks. Methods of protecting checks against raising were also shown. The chairman of the meeting was Al Sparks.

The club had as its guests at this meeting the captains of three of the Sequoia High School teams. They were Dick Morgan and Bruce Graham, captains of the 120 and 110-pound basket ball teams and Chas. Clancy, captain of the football team.

Word was received Tuesday from Hall Ross, local attorney who is on a trip around the world. At that time he was in Yokahama and preparing to leave for China.

STATES LARGEST CROP OF COTTON HARVESTED

SACRAMENTO, October 17—(UP) California is now harvesting the greatest cotton crop in the state's history, according to the State Department of Agriculture.

On the basis of 309,000 acres to harvest at a crop condition of 88 per cent, a total production of 232,000 bales, or 359 pounds to the acre, is expected.

Many reports recorded deterioration of the top crop from excessive heat during late August, according to E. E. Kauffman, statistician, while other areas show improvement.

The federal Bureau of the Census reported 13,000 bales ginned in California to October 1, while in the entire United States, 5,906,000 bales were ginned.

California shows a greater average cotton production per acre over the last 10 years than any other cotton producing region in the United states, the report said.

FIRE IN CURTAIN CAUSE OF ALARM

When a breeze through an open window blew the window curtains over a burning gas heater things happened quickly in the home of W. T. Alexander of 282 Edgewood road Tuesday night. The curtains caught fire and soon a blaze had started which treatened to destroy the house The fire department answered the alarm and soon had the fire under control. Except for the curtain little damage was done.

GOOD EYES, BUT HE COULDN'T READ SIGN

CHICO—Oct. 15 — (UP)—Maybe you can read signs at a great distance. But can you spell everything you read?

A gentleman taking an examination for a driver's license in the local police station recently was a champion reader. But he just couldn't spell.

The letters "O-F-L-C-T-G" were pointed out to him on a chart during the eye test. The applicant stood looking at the chart for a moment, his lips moving but uttering no sound.

"Can't you read it from there?" he was asked.

"Sure, I can read it all right," same the puzzled answer, "but what the heck does it spell?"

ARMENIAN COLONY MAY BE LOCATED AT BIGGS

BIGGS, Cal.—Oct. 16—(UP) Prospects of an Armenian colony settling near here are seen with visits of several leaders of a colony now located in the southern San Joaquin valley.

Several thousand acres of land will be purchased, it is said, and a model community laid out. Lowering of the water level near their San Joaquin valley location has forced the Armenians to search for a new home, the leaders said.

RICHARDSON MAY CALL THE BLUFF

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 16—(UP)—Director of Public Works Bert B. Meek, right hand man of Governor Young, told some one the other day that he would personally finance ex-Governor Friend W. Richardson if he cared to run against Governor Young at the 1930 election.

Of course it was designed as a hint that in case Governor Young determined to run, there was no one he could beat more easily than Richardson, but—

"Next time I see Bert I'm going to tell him I'll take him up on that proposition," decuared Richardson, when informed of the offer. "I know what he meant all right, but I'm willing to be the opposition—and maybe it wouldn't turn out just the way Bert thinks."

But the play must go on! So proved Louie Nelson, the masculine lead in "White Collars," junior play, who was injured last Saturday night night by an auto while riding his motorcycle in Redwood City. Monday after school at rehearsal, members of the play cast were surprised to see Louie on cruches. He had not attended school all day, but had made a special effort to get to rehearsal and thus not hold up the play in any way.

Clubs To Have Charter

More than twenty-eight clubs have been formed in Sequoia. It is believed by members of the faculty that the students will have more social life here at the school and also that they will have a chance to develop initiative and leadership through the "every student in a club" idea. Charters will be given the clubs which are taken from the present Kiwanis Club charter, with slight changes. James Flynn, commissioner of cultural activities, is chairman of the charter committee.

Wawona Washburn Heads Press Committee

With Andy Bright, commissioner of publicity, as chairman, a board of publicity has been formed. Miss Eunice Schmidt, Byron R. Bentley, and Don Kauffman are the advisers. Different committees will be appointed to take charge of the school's publicity, under Andy Bright. So far, only Wawona Washburn has been appointed, who will have charge of the press committee.

Pictures Being Exhibited

Pictures are being exhibited in the rooms and study halls by Mrs. Vera Jones Bright. There are reproductions of famous paintings, wood blocks, and linoleum plates. Six European and eight New York art companies are represented in the exhibit. It is hoped that some of the pictures may be purchased for Sequoia.

Auditorium Admission Fixed

From now on all seats, whether reserved or otherwise, in the auditorium, will be fifty cents, according to A. C. Argo, principal.

SCHOOL TO DEBATE ON CHAIN STORES

Mrs. Bess Balcomb, debate coach of Sequoia, was unanimously elected president of the Peninsula Debating League at a regular meeting in San Jose Saturday. The league is composed of six schools: Palo Alto, San Jose, Santa Clara, Los Gatos, Bellarmine and Sequoia, all of which were present at the meeting.

The Stanford debating organization, Euphronia, formerly decided upon the subjects of the debate for the league. The constitution was amended Saturday so that the subjects will be chosen by the schools debating in the league.

"Resolved: That the Expansion of the Chain Store System is detrimental to the best interests of the American people" was the topic decided upon for the first round of debates. At another meeting in San Jose during February, the topic for the second round will be decided upon, and problems of the league will be discussed.

The first debate is to be held February 24, and the second, April 19.

...ly Functions ...g Assumed By ...ate Government

HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
SACRAMENTO, Oct. 17—(UP)—...Mateo county, along with the ...counties of the state, ...deemed to pass out of ...as a political subdivision ...nia?

...question, alarming though it may seem at first reading, is actualling receiving serious discussion in Sacramento, as dozens of new laws become effective, taking away functions of counties and centralizing them in the state government.

Take the newly-organized state highway patrol, for example. None will deny that it is more efficient than the old double-headed system of joint state-county control. But it shows the trend of the times. When the remedy was applied, it was the state which took over the patrol, not the counties.

The state judicial council, created in 1927, supervises every superior judge in California, moving him from place to place "ad lib." As a result, every judge is a circuit judge, and many serve at home less than one-fourth of the time.

Every elective county office now comes in for a share of state supervision. The sheriff must submit to having his county jail inspected and brought up to standards. He must keep elaborate records and reports for the state. If he has a tough crime problem to solve, state detectives step in to help him. An intercommunicating system of teletype machines, established by the state, will aid counties in hunting down crimianls.

The last state tax commission recommended that the state board of equalization be abolished, and replaced by a permanent professional tax commission of three, appointed by the governor, to evaluate real estate of public utilities for return to counties. Of great significance was the recommendation that the commission supervise and assist county assessors.

The state department of social welfare is gradually taking on more county functions. Adoption of babies is now almost entirely under state control. A new act in effect for the first time this year gives the state new powers in supervising county probation officers. The state will have the final word on applications for the new old age pension, which goes into effect January 1. State aid for the needy blind will be state-supervised, although the county pays half the cost.

Other outstanding examples of transferring county functions to the state are the proposed 24-hour schools for incorrigible children, the proposed state prison for women offenders sent to county jails, state collection of county personal taxes on automobiles, administration of the 3-cent gasoline tax act, and fi...ally, legislative approval of all coun? ...ty salary increases or addition of deputies.

A ray of hope is seen in the committee authorized by the 1929 legislature which will investigate the question of county home rule for the next two years. Proposed by Assemblyman Frank Luttrell of Santa Rosa, the committee will check on county governments of other states, and report to the legislature in 1931.

For a Quarter of a Century Bank of Italy

HERE is a story of trail blazing, of pioneering and empire building...measured in progress and achievement, as well as in years! ❧ Since October 17, 1904...when the Bank of Italy first opened its doors for business...sweeping changes, unmatched in other chapters of the world's history, have been made in modes of living, the habits and customs of the people, and in business methods and practices. ❧ In terms of material progress we are far removed from the days of the hansom cab, the two-cylinder automobile, and the usage of a generation typified by these vehicles. The era of aviation and of radio is upon us. ❧ While in its own program of development, the Bank of Italy has kept pace with the changing demands of the day...always in stride with the requirements of business...yet in its belief in and interpretation of the fundamental principles of sound and prudent banking there has been no deviation from the course laid out twenty-five years ago, when the institution was founded. ❧ Character, integrity, honesty and fair dealing remain the same. There can never be compromise with right. The fundamental rules, described by the founder of the bank at its inception, must prevail, without reference to time or circumstance. There is now, and always will be, the strictest interpretation of these precepts "...of the people, by the people, for the people..." which have endured in the policies of this institution for a quarter of a century. ❧ The directors and officers of the Bank of Italy, in renewing their expression of adherence to these principles, believe that it is fitting to acknowledge with sincere gratitude, the fine spirit of loyalty evidenced by the hundreds of thousands of Californians whose generous patronage has made possible the record of achievement.

Move to Save Dewey Flagship

Washington.—The final disposition of the U. S. S. Olympia, flagship of Admiral George Dewey at the battle of Manila bay, is likely to be considered at the next regular session of congress, as a strong sentiment has developed among veterans and patriotic organizations for preservation of the vessel as a historic relic.

The vessel, having outlived its usefulness as a fighting craft, might in the ordinary course of events be slated for scrapping, but the tradition of its prowess as a fighting machine, gained at Manila, still lingers in the public consciousness.

Heeding telegrams from all chapters of the Veterans of the Spanish War, the Navy department has officially announced that the disposal of the Olympia has not yet been decided upon, and that its preservation will be fully considered before disposal is approved.

After service as the flagship of Rear Admiral F. V. McNair from 1895 to 1898, cruising in waters of Japan, China, and the Sandwich (now Hawaiian) islands, the Olympia became the flagship of Admiral George Dewey in command of the Asiatic squadron on January 3, 1898, Capt. G. W. Gridley, U. S. N., commanding, according to information furnished by the Navy department.

On May 1, 1898, at the battle of Manila bay, the Olympia led the attack on the ships of the Spanish squadron.

The Olympia has seen service in many parts of the world since the time of the war with Spain. It continued for a few months with the Asiatic squadron, but went out of commission on November 8, 1898. After recommissioning in January, 1902, it joined the North Atlantic squadron as flagship. During the period from 1903 to 1905 it went on errands of protection for American interests and lives in Panama, Smyrna, and the Dominican republic.

When the United States entered the World war, the Olympia was designated flagship of the United States patrol force. She was employed in patrol duty off the coast of Nova Scotia and ocean escort for British merchantmen en route to and from New York and the war zone.

In December, 1918, the Olympia became the flagship of the commander of United States naval forces in the eastern Mediterranean, and cruised the Adriatic and Black seas. After several important missions of post war transport and relief in eastern European waters, the Olympia returned May, 1921, to Philadelphia.

In September, 1921, she was assigned the distinguished duty of bringing home for burial in Arlington cemetery the Unknown Soldier representative of the heroes of the American forces of the World war. She left the Philadelphia navy yard on this mission October 3, 1921, reaching Plymouth, October 16. She arrived at the Washington navy yard on November 9, 1921, with the Unknown Soldier, and was met by representatives of the army and navy and other services.

Sleeping Sickness

Sleeping sickness is caused by a tiny animal parasite, the carrier being the tsetse fly. The duration of the disease varies with different victims, some living for several years. Irregular fever, headache, inability to sleep, and weakness are early symptoms, followed by red eruptions and enlargement of glands all over the body. Then come sleepiness and convulsions.

Of that mighty poem, Gray's "Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard," it is known that Gray made many revisions and changes in it. Unnecessary Pain!

Nowadays, people take Bayer Aspirin for many little aches and pains, and as often as they encounter any pain.

Why not? It is a proven antidote for pain. It works!

And Bayer Aspirin tablets are utterly harmless. You have the medical profession's word for that; they do not depress the heart.

So, don't let a cold "run its course." Don't wait for a headache to "wear off." Or regard neuralgia, neuritis, or even rheumatism as something you must endure. Only a physician can cope with the cause of such pain, but you can always turn to Bayer Aspirin for relief.

Bayer Aspirin is always dependable, and it always helps. Familiarize yourself with its many uses and avoid a lot of needless suffering.

Lights of New York

—By— GRANT DIXON

Human Dynamos

In discussing the head of a big New York bank, a man, who is himself important in the financial world, criticized him as follows:

"He's a guy who exercises every morning."

I don't know whether this can be called a complete characterizer in view of the large amount of propaganda that there is now for matutinal exercising, but it certainly fitted the subject under discussion. What the author of the statement meant to say was that the bank president had accomplished the success he had made in life through brute strength and energy rather than through superior thinking and unusual mental adroitness. He is the type of executive who is always driving and pushing, and, when one stops to consider it, a great deal can be accomplished by application and brute strength without an unusual quantity of talent.

The Resourceful Dramatist

Louis Weitzenkorn, editor of a New York paper, has written a play which has been accepted for production. One of the scenes is at a Long Island house party, and it shows the week-end guests who are complaining bitterly about the service and the dull time they are having. The owner is trying to think of a name for this country place, and he has heard his guests crabbing. Instantly he has an inspiration, and he calls it BELLYACRES.

It's the Upkeep

I am informed that a banker has moved into the most expensive apartment in the city. It is on Park avenue, and occupies three floors. The living room is three stories high. The apartment was built to the banker's order, and cost $400,000. The cost of maintaining co-operative apartments is at least 10 per cent, so the banker's "rent," on top of the purchase price, is $40,000 a year. And that doesn't include the interest he might be getting from a $400,000 investment.

Proper meals were served at all times, and the hostess was obliged to provide twelve of the eighteen "days" on the diet.

Irvin Cobb was talking about the son of a great man the other day. To prove his point that the sons of great men do not usually measure up to the standards of their fathers, the name of this man is not necessary for the anecdote, and therefore will be omitted. Cobb's comment on the son was that he was a faint carbon copy of his father about eight times removed from the original made on purple carbon paper.

Doctor Gives Hint to Lucky Salesman

IT'S a wise man that knows when he is slipping. Mr. R. F. Myers of 711 Rosedale Street, Baltimore, had the good fortune to get his tip straight from one of his doctor customers (he was selling for a pharmaceutical house) and since that lucky visit he has increased his business 50 per cent.

For two years he had been driving from town to town, and naturally this threw his elimination out of shape. He felt himself slipping. Cathartics only made him worse. Then one day he was calling on a wise old physician, and asked his advice. "What you need, my boy," said the doctor, "is a simple, easy, normal way to clean the poisons out of your system—we all have them—and with your kind of work they certainly cut down efficiency. Why don't you try Nujol?"

"Well, believe it or not," says Mr. Myers, "in a few days I felt like a new man. 'What's got into you?' asked the home office, 'your business has increased 50 per cent.'

That's the great thing about Nujol. As soon as it begins to get the poisons out of your system it makes you feel so well that you almost always do a much better

Nujol is not a medicine and contains no drugs. It is perfectly harmless, forms no habit. It is a bodily lubrication, which every needs. You, like everybody else

Why put off good health longer? Go into any good drug and get a bottle of Nujol in a package. Costs so little and so much! Maybe you can your efficiency 50 per cent too

It is easy enough to find a day to celebrate, but why should they all be celebrated alike?

A GOOD STORY

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

Father never gave me a great deal of advice when I was a boy. I do not know whether or not he was a practical psychologist and realized, as I have come long ago to do, that precept counts very little in the development of habits and character, but that we learn most largely from example. Father was a very good man; his one bad habit was his attachment to an odorous pipe. I lay it to his credit that he never advised me not to smoke. His wisdom in this regard accounts, I am quite certain, for the fact that tobacco has never had any attractions for me.

So far as I knew, father had never read a novel in his life, and he was a constant reader. He objected to fiction as he did to cards and dancing, and the one dictum I recall that he ever laid down to me was, "Lad, don't read novels; they are not good for you."

I had read hundreds of them before I was fifteen—openly, surreptitiously, out in the yard, lying flat on the floor in the front room, after I had gone to bed at night, up in the barn loft—everywhere in fact where it was possible to take a book with me.

I've just had a long ride on a crowded passenger train without a soul near me whom I have ever seen before; but it has been a delightful ride full of thrills and romance and excitement, for I have had a good story in my hand which has held attention and left me oblivious of everything else around me.

If I am thankful for anything which characterized my childhood and youth it is that very early in life I developed the habit of reading and that I became acquainted with some of the best fiction that has ever been written. I waded or dashed through a lot of worthless stuff, it is true, but I got also well acquainted with Dickens and Thackeray, and Scott and Cooper, and Dumas and Hugo, and a host of other masters of the art of story telling. As long as I can read or can be read to life will never for me become dull or uninteresting.

Bruce Barton is quoted as saying to a mother who asked how she could break her boy of the habit of reading stories:

"I do not know. It is about as easy to cure a boy of eating as it is to destroy his love for good stories. The love of fiction is as old as—older than recorded history, older even than civilization. It cannot be rooted out—its roots run back too far.

"And why should you want to root it out? The greatest Teacher that ever lived spent half His time telling stories to His disciples. 'Without a parable He taught them nothing.' These stories have transformed humanity."

Birds Flock to Sanctuaries

Ottawa.—Thousands of sea birds—gannets, elder ducks, puffins, cormorants, terns, and many others—wheeling and screaming or covering the nesting ledges like banks of snow, is the scene which presents itself to the visitor to the big sanctuaries of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, says the Canadian bureau of natural resources.

Since the earliest times the bird rocks of the Magdelen islands, Perce Rock and Bonaventure island off the Gaspe coast and the islands along the north shore of the gulf have been the breeding grounds for countless numbers of sea birds, and the protection their bird inhabitants received because of the Migratory Birds Convention act has resulted in greatly increasing their numbers.

Each year the sanctuaries are visited by a migratory bird officer from the department of the interior and careful note is made of the increase among the birds.

The fame of the bird sanctuaries of the St. Lawrence, which number 13, has spread and growing throngs of tourists make the trip by rail or steamer each year. The Gaspe coast rookeries were set aside in 1919 and those along the northern shore of the gulf were established in 1925. All are under the joint control of the Dominion government and the Quebec provincial authorities.

The bird sanctuaries off the Gaspe coast, which are reached with ease by rail to the quaint little town of Perce, are better known than those of the north shore and consequently the thrilling picture of the great throngs of gannets which inhabit the Bird Rocks, Perce Rock and Bonaventure island are known to many.

Find Bull Lost in Heart of Huge Stack

Frankfort, Ind.—The prize bull story of the year if not of all time came from Postmaster Edward Spray.

For eight days a prize bull was missing on the Spray farm near Simpson Stop, south of here.

Jess Lucas, tenant on the farm, notified Spray that all search for the bull had proved fruitless.

Spray had about given up hope of finding the animal.

On the eighth day Lucas noticed a new tunnel in a large straw stack that was approximately 40 by 60 feet.

He investigated and found the bull clear in the center of the straw stack, slowly eating his way through to the other side!

The bull appeared to be in fairly good physical shape except that he was thirsty, not having had a drop to drink for eight days.

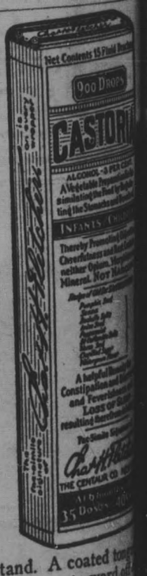
Restless Children



Children will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always one sure way to comfort a restless, fretful child. Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than some powerful medicine that is meant for the stronger systems of adults.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is any need. In cases of colic, diarrhea, or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. But it has everyday uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue for a few drops to ward off indigestion; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever baby doesn't eat well, don't rest until you have any little upset—that this vegetable preparation is all that's needed to set everything to rights. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Doctors prescribe it.

"Lucile is the Happiest Girl"

So many mothers nowadays talk about giving their children fruit juices, as if this were a new discovery. As a matter of fact, for over fifty years, mothers have been accomplishing results far surpassing anything you can secure from home prepared fruit juices, by using pure, wholesome California Fig Syrup, which is prepared under the most exacting laboratory supervision from ripe California Figs, richest of all fruits in laxative and nourishing properties.

It's marvelous to see how bilious, weak, feverish, sallow, constipated, under-nourished children respond to its gentle influence; how their breath clears up, color flames in their cheeks, and they become sturdy, playful, energetic again. A Western mother, Mrs. H. J. Stoll, Valley P. O., Nebraska, says: "My little daughter, Roma Lucile, was constipated from babyhood. I became worried about her and decided to give her some California Fig Syrup. It stopped her constipation quick; and the way it improved her color and made her pick up made me realize how run-down she had been. She is so sturdy and well now, and always in such good humor that neighbors say she's the happiest girl in the West."

Like all good things, California Fig Syrup is imitated, but you can always get the genuine by looking for the name "California" on the carton.

Old Bank Vault Buried

The first bank vault in Hillsboro, N. H., has been laid to rest. Workmen razed the building which housed the town bank two score years ago and rather than go to the trouble of removing the large cumbersome iron and steel strong box it was decided to dig a hole under the building, which is to be replaced, and drop the safe into it. That was done.

Makes Life Sweeter
Children's stomachs sour, and need an anti-acid. Keep their systems sweet with Phillips Milk of Magnesia!
When tongue or breath tells of acid condition—correct it with a spoonful of Phillips. Most men and women have been comforted by this universal sweetener—more mothers should invoke its aid for their children. It is a pleasant thing to take, yet neutralizes more acid than the harsher things too often employed for the purpose. No household should be without it.
Phillips is the genuine, prescriptional product physicians endorse for general use; the name is important. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. registered trade mark of the Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

A Master Speech-Highway

THE busiest long-distance speech highway in America, according to the records, is that one which speeds up talking by wire between New York city and Philadelphia—a distance of about 100 miles.

So great has been the demand for telephone service between these two great aggregations of humanity that calls are made at the rate of about eight per minute or about 10,000 every 24 hours—some 200 telephone circuits being kept busy day and night.

Four underground cables, each enclosing hundreds of wires, in addition to two wire-and-pole lines, are required to carry these messages and a fifth cable probably will be placed in service by the time this appears in print.

The underground cables used in this service are ingenious contrivances. They are considered storm proof, insulated against dampness and encased in a sheath of lead. Although less than three inches in diameter, a sufficient number of wires can be packed into one of them to permit 250 telephone conversations and 500 telegraph messages to be transmitted at the same time—by virtue of a special apparatus which makes possible the sending of many messages over comparatively few wires.

The amazing demand and consequent rapid increase in facilities for overcoming the handicap of distance is here illustrated to the nth degree. The first telephone service between these points was installed in 1885. Doubting Thomases regarded the service as an experiment which might develop into a convenience, but never would develop into a necessary service to the public.

"The Greatest Bridge in the World"

A MASTODONIC bridges, officially known as the Hudson River bridge, but referred to as "The Greatest Bridge in the World," which will cut the air high above the waters of this famous and lordly stream between the Palisades of New Jersey and Riverside drive, New York, is under construction.

In an attempt to cope with the probable traffic demands of future generations, man has dared to build a bridge of such gigantic proportions as to stagger the imagination. The bridge proper will jump the river in a single span 3,500 feet long, while its length, exclusive of the ornate plazas which are planned for either end, will be 7,800 feet. Its two piers, resting on bed rock, will each be 210 by 65 feet at base and tower 635 feet above the water and its floor, which will be 253 feet above the water, will have an ultimate width of 188 feet. The weight of the suspended construction will approximate 90,000 tons, supported by cables containing 26,474 wires each and three feet thick.

The design adopted admits of expanding the capacity as necessity demands. Originally, its one deck will carry four lanes of vehicular traffic and two sidewalks. Later, two 24-foot roadways can be added. Finally, a second deck can be swung under the first one, providing for from two to eight tracks for rapid transit service, bringing the maximum capacity of the structure up to something like 30,000,000 vehicles annually. All told, this is one of the most difficult construction feats yet attempted by man.

The Moffat Tunnel

AFTER years of tedious boring through six miles of solid rock and the expenditure of about $18,000,000—the Moffat tunnel, carrying twin steel rails through the backbone of this continent, fifty miles northwest of Denver, was completed in 1928.

This is the highest tunnel in the world—being upwards of a mile and a half above the waters in the seas, notwithstanding which some of the peaks of the Continental Divide tower half a mile above the track. It measures 16 feet by 24 feet and was built with a high-point at the center so that seepage water would readily drain away. It is 23 miles shorter and 2,400 feet lower than the previous route which squirmed over "The Divide" through that bleak canyon known as Rollins Pass.

This tunnel promises to become a national asset of no mean importance. It provides a gateway between a territory in Northeastern Colorado and Eastern Utah—that is larger than France and, 'tis claimed, holds enough coal to supply this country for several centuries, oil shale beds capable of producing enough ammonium sulphate to fertilize all the farms in the Mississippi basin, billions of feet of timber and millions of acres of public lands open to entry—and some 40,000,000 persons who people that great area between the Rockies and the Alleghenies. When the railroad is completed to Salt Lake City it will materially shorten the distance between Denver and the Pacific coast and will thus operate to speed up transcontinental traffic.

WHY WE BEHAVE LIKE HUMAN BEINGS

By GEORGE DORSEY, Ph. D., LL. D.

Why Walking Is More Restful Than Standing

IN WALKING, each leg rests half the time. We tire standing because neither leg gets rested. The shoulder muscles which hold the head erect also ache from the strain in standing. As we nap in a chair the head nods.

Flat feet are not due to a giving way of ligaments; ligaments limit joint movement. Feet become "flat" when the muscles of the arch fail to support it; the arch breaks down. The result is a mid-tarsal joint. This is most likely to happen in long, narrow feet.

Short feet and high insteps go with large calves. To raise our body on our toes, we lift our heel. The toes are the fulcrum, the power is the calf muscles; the weight falls on the foot at the ankle joint but nearest the power at the heel. Hence the greater need for large calf muscles. But small calves go with long heel bones. As the foot is a lever of the second order, the long heel brings the weight nearer the fulcrum—that is, the toes. Hence "flat-foots" do not step off their toes; the fallen arch destroys the lever of the foot.

We nod our head between skull and first vertebrae, or atlas; rotate, between atlas and second vertebrae, or axis. Both movements are limited by ligaments; otherwise the signal cord would be crushed.

The main business of the face is to hold the teeth-bearing jaws; eyes and nose moved in by accident. The infant's face and neck seem small because the brain is so large. Their real growth begins with the eruption of the teeth.

The skull is a fulcrum for the jaw muscles in chewing. Muscles to hold the fulcrum steady develop with the teeth. The neck grows larger. With the teeth all in place the neck reaches normal size, the rounded "baby-face" disappears; strong jaws, powerful muscles, and prominences and ridges on bones of face and head support the muscles of mastication. The tiny mastoid processes below the infant's ears become adult structures as big as thumbs, required for muscle support.

The first, or milk, teeth should be in place by the end of the second year. Meanwhile the transverse ridges in the roof of the infant's mouth disappear. The permanent dentition begins with the first molars in the seventh year; incisors in the eighth and ninth; premolars in the tenth and eleventh; canine and second molars in the thirteenth to fourteenth; third molars, or wisdom teeth, in the seventeenth to fortieth year.

Startling changes of far-reaching consequence mark the years of adolescence for both sexes. As these changes are both physical and mental, and as they proceed under impulses from the gonads acting as glands of internal secretion, they will be described in the chapter devoted to the endocrine organs.

After maturity the body's chief task is to maintain its equilibrium: produce enough energy and heat to keep up repairs and carry on. But, from ovum to death, the body never ceases to change.

Old age or senile changes precede natural death. These appear toward the end of a span of life which varies in different species. This span of life for some invertebrates is less than 100 hours; for some insects, 17 years; for some fishes and reptiles, over 200 years; for some birds and mammals, 120 years.

Longevity is not, as Weismann claimed, related to size of body. Some mammals live less than two years, some locusts seventeen. A dog is old at 20. I have seen a parrot 117 years old; it matured in its first year. A tortoise can live 350 years. No elephant known has exceeded 130 years. Nor does death "naturally" follow the reproductive stage; innumerable animals long survive their sex life. But every animal must reach sex maturity or its kind dies with it.

Old age is decrepitude; the body is worn out. The mechanism the infant acquired to walk with breaks down. The spine is not so supple, the cartilage disks between vertebrae shrink. This decreases stature—as much as three inches after fifty. The spine both collapses and "stoops with age." The knees are bent, the hip joints stiff. The muscles shrink. The body loses its natural fat. Folds of skin appear on neck and face. The toothless jaws atrophy and the mouth loses its shape. Cheeks and temples cave in.

The brain loses weight—in the last 40 years of life as much as three ounces. The heart is enlarged from over-action to keep the blood coursing through thick, hard arteries. The pulse mounts again. It was 134 at birth, 110 at the end of the first year, 72 at twenty-one. After eighty, it is 80. The lungs lose their elasticity, the walls become thicker.

Many women after fifty show a thicker neck, hair on the face, deepertoned voice, more prominent cheekbones, ridges over the eyes. Their "feminine" traits are less feminine. It is as though the inactivity of the gonads permitted a return to a neutral condition, halfway between male and female.

Old age, senility, decrepitude; the body is worn out, it can no longer function. Death.

Big Paintings Puzzle Heirs

What to do with the collection of huge paintings of the late Tivadar Csontvary, the Hungarian artist, has been puzzling his heirs. Each picture is as large as the front of a good-sized house. A plan was tried of selling them by the yard, but so formidable was even the task of unrolling them that when an attempt to photograph them was made the fire department was called in to help spread them out in the great courtyard of the city hall. This plan of disposing of them did not succeed, so a relative has bought the lot and is storing them in his garage for the present.

Three Units Unite to Prevent Forest Fires

One cent an acre is being spent this year to protect the forests of the United States against the peril of devastating fires. Uncle Sam's share of this is one-third of a cent.

This small sum, used to guard one of the greatest, though dwindling, natural resources of the country, is divided three ways, with the federal government, the state and private individuals sharing the burden.

Under the Clarke-McNary law of 1924 the forest service co-operates in the work with the states on a basis whereby the states must at least equal the federal appropriation. For the fiscal year 1929 the federal treasury is providing $1,400,000, an increase of $200,000 over the previous fiscal year. The states and private interest, between them, are making up the difference.

Working with the forest service are experts of 38 states.

Songs of Plain Folks

Aunt Mary

Aunt Mary parts her silver hair
Just so—and you'd remember, too,
The little things her hands will do,
And how she rocks her rocking chair.
But we all know Aunt Mary by
Her smiles so innocent and sweet,
By dear embraces when we meet
And love's warm twinkle in her eye.

Aunt Mary's children—not her own
By birth, but just by mothering—
Rejoice when happy fortunes bring
Reunions—how the years have flown!
Our boys and girls, all nearly grown,
Make us feel old, and we enjoy
Aunt Mary's saying, "You're my boy,"
More, being young to her alone.

To all Aunt Marys everywhere,
To dear old mother souls who burn
Love's candle for our safe return,
Who say at evenings a prayer
For us, may God in gentleness
Give jeweled thoughts each passing day
That their loved spirits may be gay,
Enjoying their earned happiness.

Y. M. I Team To Play Eagles Here Sunday

The Redwood City Y. M. I. football team will meet the San Francisco Eagles on the local grounds next Sunday afternoon at 2:30. Saturday night at 8:00 the Eagles Fife and Drum corps will lead a mammoth parade through the streets of this city to stimulate interest in the game which should be the premiere of the local season.

Coach Dan Foley has his Redwood City Instituters in good shape for the fray and has been brushing up his forward pass attack both in the backfield and the resistance of the line. Puting Joe Fena at guard with Sam Brown on the other guard position and flanking Jack Hosford at center, Foley has a center trio which is well nigh impregnable. Cofiori started hitting the line from fullback position in last Sunday's game with the U. C. College of Pharmacy, making ten yards at a plunge and Jansing and Beltrami started in sidestepping the opposition in better than their earlier season form. Fred Danz, stellar end of the locals, filled in one quarter at halfback and gained considerable yardage by carefully picking his holes. "Clam" O'Brien and Perpoli at tackle, are a bulwark on defense and adept at opening the holes in the opposition's line on offense and should give the Eagle linemen plenty of trouble.

The Eagles are coached by Tom "Soup" Carothers, former St. Ignatius, Olympic Club and West Shrine star center, and have in their games so far this season shown themselves to be a powerful team, not having allowed their opponents to score on them thus far. Defeating Salinas and Sacramento and tieing the Hottentots 0 to 0, Carother's outfit must posses a strong defense. The Eagles squad numbers 30 men, former Santa Clara, St. Mary's, Washington State, Texas University, St. Ignatius, Army and Navy and San Francisco high school stars are on the roster.

MISSING BOY FOUND NEAR SKYLINE

Kent Sinclaire, 12-year-old Hillsborough boy, and son of a San Francisco attorney, was found Wednesday after a two-day search in which Boy Scouts were called in to help as well as police officers. The boy disappeared while supposedly in school.

He was found Wednesday by two Hillsborough Boy Scouts. He was in a canyon west of the Skyline road, and was preparing to make camp for the night. Armed with a small rifle and a butterfly net, he was enjoying a hunting trip all by himself in the mountains of the county.

The boy's mother was in a state of collapse when he was returned to his home by the two Scouts.

WOMEN'S CLUBS MAKING PLANS FOR VETERANS

An important meeting of the committee of War Veterans of the San Mateo County Federation of Women's Clubs was held at the Redwood City Woman's Club House on October 15. Plans for the usual Christmas celebration at the Base hospital were discussed. Each year the various women's clubs of the county remember the veterans and look forward to the annual custom of giving a Christmas package to each man. Those present at Tuesday's meeting were: Mrs. A. H. Reith, Mrs. F. M. Perkins of Redwood City; Mrs. Jay T. Cooper, Miss Stella Ely of Menlo Park; Mrs. Peter B. Stumpf, Mrs. Fred Clark, Mrs. Ashley R. Farless, Miss May Haworth, of San Mateo; Mrs. R. L. McWilliams, Mrs. E. L. Norberg, Mrs. George Rearden, Mrs. H. B. Sprague of Burlingame; Mrs. A. S. Alexander and Miss Albertina French of Belmont; Mrs. George C. Bigler, Mrs. Willey of North Burlingame; Mrs. J. O. McMills of South San Francisco and Mrs. Mona Christianson of East Palo Alto.

J. A. Peterson Rites Saturday

Peterson was a brother of Mrs. Emma Boos and Mrs. Anna Dalve, both of this city. Two other sisters, Mrs. Clara Crown and Mrs. Matilda Bolien of San Jose, also survive.

BUSINESS MEN IN VOLLEYBALL CONTESTS

Fifty business men turned out for the initial games in the Business Men's Volleyball League last Thursday evening at the Sequoia High School gym. These men played on eight teams, games being played simultaneously. Roy A. Hohberger, volleyball commissioner, who is promoting the league, reports that two more teams will enter soon.

The results of the games showed the majority of the teams quite evenly matched The Yomecans were defeated by the Bank of Italy 47 to 41. The Exchange Club won from the Postoffice team by a score of 51 to 31; the Professors downed the Engineers 51 to 26, and the Kiwanis Club defeated the Titles 54 to 22. The other teams which it is hoped will bring the number of teams up to ten, will be an aggregation of All Stars and the Lions.

This is the largest aggregation of business men that have ever turned out to play this game which is proving so popular throughout the U. S. with this age men. Special arrangements have been made so that all teams can play at one time. There is still room for a few men on one of the teams and any who might be interested would be welcome. The time of play is Thursday evening at 6 p. m. Games are over by 6:45 p. m.

FRIENDLY INDIANS FORM FIFTH CLUB

Another club under the program of the Young Men's Christian Association in Redwood City was organized this week at the McKinley grammar school by Roy A. Hohberger, the local community Y. M. C. A. secretary. This club for boys 9 to 12 years of age will be known as the "Iroquois Friendly Indians" and will be under the direction of "Big Chief" Andrew Spinas. Close to twenty-five boys were in attendance. A number of these boys had been members of the Aztec Friendly Indians, which is made up of Central school boys, prior to their transfer to McKinley school. For nearly a year they have been striving to have a tribe organized at McKinley so that they might enjoy some of the worthwhile good times which they had experienced before they were transferred.

The Friendly Indian program was explained and the requirements of helpfulness to their home, school, church and community were set forth.

Officers were elected for the term as follows: "Chief" Tom Graham, "Tom-Tom Beater" Francis Hart, "Wampum Bearer" Darwin Wheeler and "Medicine Man" Charles Vannulli. "Indian Runner" Earle Preston won his right to this office by winning the race in which all of the tribe participated with the exception of the elected officers who acted as judges.

This brings the total of Friendly Indian Tribes in Redwood City up to five, there being one in each of the schools.

The "Iriquois" also elected a football captain, Francis Hart, who will start immediately to get a team ready which will participate in the Friendly Indian Football League.
